

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In order to obtain a simple and highly reliable method of polarimetry, there is provided a method of polarimetry characterized by calculating an angle of rotation from discrete 2 or 3 measuring points, and performing again the measurement on the measuring point which is not effective.

00000159 101901